EDITOR'S CORNER

Yes, I know THE JOURNAL was late. I would like to blame it on the Gremlins, but unfortunately I am entirely to blame. But I have a great excuse! I was studying for the California State Attorneys Exam. Just what the world needs - another attorney. Would it help if I swear never to practice law? In fact, depending on when you receive this issue, I may be in the middle of the exam itself.

If the delay bothers you, and if it will make you feel any better, you should know that nothing you could curse me with could compare to the three day California Bar Exam. If you have religious leanings, be kind, and say a prayer for me and all those other lost souls.

This issue, while small, has a great deal of information. First, please note numerous changes of addresses for your officers, including yours truly. Mobile Bunch aren't we! Second, please note the two pages of Nic-Nacs. Lots of stuff going on out there. Third, please note the forms (Back Cover and Wrapper) for exhibiting in the upcoming U.N. Stamp Expo 91'.

Finally, all members should be aware that the August issue is being merged with the October issue, and being published in early October. This 40+ page Journal will be a super double issue for the U.N. Stamp Expo 91' show. If you have a great article, something interesting for Nic-Nacs, or just something to say or advertise, send it in for inclusion. All regular columnists should have one article for inclusion in the issue.

The Premier Auction was semi-successful. With total sales running just under US$2,000.00 and about 40% of the lots receiving bids. Given the present state of the economy I probably should not be surprised. Also it probably did not help that I moved right in the middle of the sale.

All bidders should be aware that I extended the auction for an extra five days to allow for all bids to each me. To the best of my knowledge no one's bid went unplaced. Whether some were lost I do not know. If so, please forgive a poor auction chairperson for wanting a nicer place to live.

As previously noted the August Journal issue will be merged with the October issue for a large 40+ pager issued for U.N. Stamp Expo 91'. I would very much like the October auction to be a special one. So if you have any special items you have been hoarding for a particular auction this is the auction. The items need not be valuable, this auction only has a $10.00 minimum, and I will turn the other cheek if something special comes in under this minimum for this auction only.

I hope to have several hundred lots. This auction will get wide exposure as copies will be widely distributed to foreign U.N. collectors and the public at the Stamp Expo. So consign some lots - PLEASE!!

Finally, I would like to announce that beginning with the February 1992 auction, Mr. Alex Bereson (that's right our very own wheeling-Dealing Treasurer) will be taking over the auctions. As the old saying stated "He's done it before - he can do it again."

Consignments for both the August/October issue and the December issue should be sent to me. The December issue will carry new instructions on where to send consignments for the February auction.

ATTENTION: ALL MEMBERS

To the surprise of many, including yours truly, the new bylaws passed by an overwhelming majority of 154 Yes to 4 No. There has to be a few in every crowd.

So, as of now the UNP is operating under the new set of by-laws.

Please keep your copy of the April Journal for reference in dealing with the by-laws. A separate publication is not schedule for the time being.

THE PRESIDENT'S PAGE

By Clayton Wallace

Many extraordinary things are occurring in U.N. philately at the present time. We can be proud of the resurgence of the United Nations during the past twelve months. Over forty five new members have joined us since last year. Recently, Bernie Kosmoski accepted the position of Membership Chairperson. I expect that his efforts, along with the efforts of each of us, will continue this positive trend.

I am pleased to announce that the new bylaws passed 154 Yes to 4 No. Thank you to each of the members who gave so generously to the club to make this possible and to all the members whose vote made it possible.

I hope everyone is making plans to attend the huge U.N. Stamp Expo 91' show at the APS headquarters in October. Numerous exciting events are planned, including a meeting with UNPA officials, a first day ceremony, lectures, and lots of U.N. exhibits. This will also be the 1991 National Meeting of the UNP. Elsewhere in this issue are forms to exhibit at this show. Please consider showing the world some of your U.N. treasures.

Finally, I am pleased to announce that the Board of Directors approved the appointment of Ken Blevins as interim Director until the next election. Alex Bereson has graciously accepted an appointment as interim Treasurer. Alex will also be running all auctions beginning with the February 1992 issue, hopefully relieving some of the burden on Mark Steven Corrinet.

LETTER FROM BRITAIN

By Bill Barnes
(Past President UNSG)

Don't Confuse Me With Facts!: (as the politician said) I have noticed - especially in the last few months - just how careless a lot of people (including some "experts") get with the facts when they want to make a devious point or two. Especially about the United Nations. So, if you want to do a bit of good for the U.N. (and therefore for U.N. philately) please correct anyone who is careless about important U.N. facts. First make sure that your are right of course!

And don't forget that a well arrayed and colorful philatelic exhibit can make the point better than any number of words.

Stretching a Point?: my main collection (the History of International Organization) embraces absolutely anything that has even the remotest connection with international matters and the organization of the world. Preferably something to do with the League or the U.N., or their forerunners. But I can stretch a point or two. So I happily bought a 1898 cover from "The Dispatch Agency of the United States London" addressed to the "U.S. Peace Commission" in Paris. I don't need to tell you that the Commission was seeking an end to the Spanish-American War - and Clay Wallace can tell you all about those Dispatch Agencies. A month or so later I found some American/Cuba overprints on piece with the slogan "Souvenir of the Peace Jubilee/Washington D.C. May 23,24,25, 1899" - obviously (I assume!) related to the aftermath of the war.

In my book (album!) they make a nice page for my League forerunners.

The U.N.'s First Stamp Account (See April issue): I now know where the other pages are - they are alive and will be living in the USA! The "monograph" thus becomes a real possibility - a task perhaps for next winter?

U.N. Charity Stamps?: I wonder whether or not the U.N. and UNPA would consider issuing an occasional charity stamp - or adding a charity premium to an ordinary issue? They may have doubts about anything of the nature affecting the (very much needed) funds the U.N. stamps now raise for the U.N.'s General Budget: in practice.

I believe the stamps would work in a number of ways - and handsomely. If, for example, they raised money to help the hungry people of Africa. I believe that very many people, who do not now buy U.N. stamps, would do so. The only question is whether we (present) collectors would object to the premium. I doubt it - especially if the charity issues were kept to no more than one (or possibly 2?) a year. Now you tell me!

Maxi-cards: I have fairly consistently opposed the introduction of gimmicks to philately. I believe that too many items that do not meet a postal need could kill the goose that lays the golden eggs for the world's postal authorities. But I am impressed with the new UNPA's Maxi-cards. They are attractive, very reasonably priced, and they meet the U.N. to sell the idea that we have to do something about the environment and do it fast. If the UNPA maintains the standard, and does not produce more than two sets of cards a year, I predict that UNPA Maxi-cards will find a good market - especially as the second set this year will be for UNPA's 40th Anniversary and have the extra incentive of an unusual (State College) cancel. In the meantime, I notice that dealers are bringing out their stocks of Maxi-card forerunners - those Picasso and Brazilian Mural Cards.

"Stampex, Art, Architecture and More..." that was a title of a recent two page article (Sub-titled "A new look at United Nations Stamps") in our Gibbons Stamp Monthly. After reviewing all the UNPA has to offer, they concluded:

"Sets tend to be short, with pairs predominating, and the number of new issues annually is always kept acceptably low." They then went on to show that from 1951 to 1989 (New York, Geneva & Vienna) UNPA had produced no more than 856 stamps.

Take a bow, UNPA! You deserve it.

By the way, please keep it that way UNPA - and not too many gimmicks please! With so many countries killing the goose by over-production, it is my belief that the moderates must win. But I still think that the Charity issues would be a winner too - and that, happily, in addition to the object of the Charity.

Britain's Stampex 1995: The UNSG has been given permission to stage a U.N. exhibition at the 1995 Stampex show during the U.N.'s 50th Anniversary year. A great boost for us and for the UNPA and the U.N.

Stamp Fairs and Postal Auctions: I wonder whether or not stamp fairs (and even the big stamp shows) are affected by the apparent increase in the number of postal auctions we have these days? Most days it seems I am wakened by the thud of a stamp auction catalogue hitting our front door mat (our postman comes early!) And I must say that I enjoy them - whether or not I find anything worth putting in a bid. But I wouldn't want to see those stamp fairs falling off. There is nothing quite like browsing through boxes and boxes of old covers ... and actually meeting dealers who enjoy their trade.

Pennsylvania: Whether or not I actually make it all the way there, I am having a great time pulling my collections to pieces and making up an exhibit the way I like it. Except (Tell me, does it happen to you too?) I keep on finding myself completing a sheet, sitting back, and admiring it ... and then seeing a bad spelling error, a wrong date, or smug in the middle of the whole beautiful set-out. Oh well, one thing philately does for you - besides patience ... or is an on-going challenge!

U.N. Peacekeeping: Around the time of the Gulf War, I had quite a job of convincing people that the U.N. has a very good record of peacekeeping. The U.N., has in fact, an excellent history, including U.N. Peacekeeping activities throughout the Middle East, Asia, and Africa.

Now the U.N.'s Department of Public Information has published a second edition of The Blue Helmets (499 pages with maps). The Secretary-General's forward points to the fact that five new operations were mounted in 1988-1989 alone. U.N. Forces collectors can do a great deal of good for the U.N. by mounting exhibits designed to demonstrate the U.N. successes in the field are increasing - thus correcting some of the "experts" of the Misery-Making-Media crowd.

Graffiti: Seen in Convent Garden (London) some years ago (I've cleaned it up a little!) "Arming to prevent war is like using sex as a contraceptive!" Which, by some odd meandering of my mind, provides me with an idea for a new type of U.N. graffiti-like stamps or labels. Words-on-the-Wall sort of thing. For example "If drug pushing is wrong - what's right with arms sales?" No prizes for any other suggestion (Mark has blue-pencilled the rest of this paragraph!) But it is an idea - for a somewhat saner future.

Editor's Note: Despite claims to the contrary I didn't touch a thing. Passing the buck are we Bill?

President's come and President's go: The observant will notice that there is something changed from the title of this column from the last - I am no longer President of the UNSG. No, they did not actually throw me out! I resigned mainly because I believe that the Presidency of organizations like ours is an honor and honors should be shared around. And I had begun to realize that I'd more or less come to the end of my uselessness. Stan Simpson is our new President - "acting" because he insisted (a very modest man is our Stan). But I am still UNSG's "Librarian and Historian" - which, I suspect is a sincere devise for the purpose of retaining my dubious services on the Committee.

Footnote: "Each of us calls those ideas clear that are in some state of confusion as his own" (Proust). But rather let fake humility get between you and what you know to be true. Remember Dag Hammarskjöld's "Never, for the sake of peace and quiet deny your own experience or convictions." And that is very important at present - there are far too many of the "Don't confuse me with facts people" around - especially when they are being politically devious about the U.N. Which is why I was delighted to see that the "purposes" in your (our!) new by-laws include the dissemination of information about the U.N. and support of the Charter and the organization itself. It doesn't have to be uncritical support of course - but it must be based on facts, logic and a bit of reasonable morality. U.N. collecting demands a little more...

The Rights of the Child issue: Six stamps designed by children at the U.N.'s International schools in New York, Geneva and Vienna and Kermit the Frog on a WFUNA cover! What more could you ask?

A Time for Change!

By Michael Konnick

Editor's Note: This will be the last column from Mr. Konnick. I have received notification that he is resigning from the UNP and to the best of my knowledge, severing most, if not all, of his ties to U.N. philately.

If my comments, following his article in the April issue of the Journal, precipitated his actions I wish to publicly apologize to Mr. Konnick for those comments. Sometimes one forgets that it is not a Editor's job to express opinions anywhere except his own commentary column.

I often do not agree with Mr. Konnick's written approach, but there have been numerous times when I did agree with his opinions. If my actions have caused United Nations philately to lose a valuable voice of change than I also apologize to all of you.

Sometimes it is the most vocal of us that brings about the greatest change for good in the long run. Even if, sometimes, we do not like to hear the message at that time.

The following is Mr. Konnick's last column received:

With a new Chief of the UNPA, it is time for collectors and dealers to ask themselves what kind of changes they would like to see in the policies of the UNPA. General comments and specific criticisms should be accepted, discussed, and acted upon.

The key is the relationship of the Chief of the UNPA to his customers, the U.N. stamp collectors of the United States and the rest of the World. Often the duties of a UNPA Chief prevent him from establishing regular contacts with the people he serves.

Back in the 1970s, when Ole Hamam was Chief of the UNPA, the question was raised whether the U.N. collector should participate in the "decision making" process. Moreover, at that time U.N. collectors did not speak with one voice. There were three U.N. clubs, representing different points of view. The U.N. Philatelic Society, consisting of U.N. staff members, had some participation. Where as U.N. collectors outside the United Nations itself had little or none.

Even to this day, most collectors are unaware of who makes the decisions at the UNPA. There is a shadow group of "overseers" known as the Stamp Design Committee. It would be helpful if the UNPA could tell us who serves on this important Committee, giving collectors the names of these individuals, their current titles at the U.N., and a brief biography of each individual (including how long each has served on the Committee and how they were chosen for this position). It would be interesting to know how frequently the Committee meets and how far they have to work in advance to set up the logistics for an issue.

Throughout the 1970s, there were many suggestions to allow a U.N. collector to sit in on meetings of the Stamp Design Committee in an advisory capacity. However, the U.N. collecting community has too divided to have the matter seriously pursued.

Now, here we are - 1991 - twenty years later! U.N. stamp sales are in a pattern of decline. Beautifully designed issues that should have sold out - haven't. Many have not been selling much more than 500,000 copies. Printing totals of new releases are still being lowered. The much cheered "Flags of the United Nations" started off with sales of over 3 million sheets per set of four. The 1987 sales totals were down to 1.2 million sheets sold per set of 4. the 1983 Human Rights issue, with a face value for a set of sheets of over US$30.00, sold over 2 million sets. The 1987 U.N. Day set sold only 1.2 million sets with a lower face value.

If we assume that the most significant drop in U.N. stamp sales, in the short term period, was 1983-1984, then we can state that the UNPA has had six to seven years to react to this event. Instead of reversing the trend, the UNPA has not been able to recover from events of the past several years. Pointing a finger at the U.S. economy is more of an excuse, rather than a cause of the UNPA's stagnation.

There has also been a stagnation of ideas. The UNPA's response to the decline in the U.N. market has been, more often than not, to raise the face value of new issues. Praying for higher rates of exchange has also been a way to generate extra revenue. Yet, it has not been enough to help the U.N. market.

Now, it is time for change. The U.N. collectors market speaks as one voice through the UNP. Members are now more aware of what is going on in the U.N. market. It is about time that the UNPA allow a member or members of the UNP to sit in on the Stamp Design Committee in an advisory capacity. The Board or Officers of the UNP can vote or choose a UNP member in good standing. The position can be rotated every three to six months among club members. In this manner, the UNPA's supervisory Stamp Design Committee can better keep track of the current market and react quicker to change.

Collectors should write to Mr. Tony Fouracre at the UNPA and ask that this request be made a reality.

Several years ago Mr. William Tyrrell published an outstanding book, entitled The Universal Postal Union: Members and Stamps 1874-1974, covering both stamps and covers commemorating the UPU. The book has been long out of print, but recently a group of these books were salvaged from a smoke fire and are being offered to both UNP and UPUC members.

The books do have some smoke damage, although having recently purchased two copies myself, it is hard to tell where. While supplies last, the books may be ordered from Mrs. Gail Galliher, Post Office Box 6, Eton, Ohio 45320 at US$11.00 in the USA, US$12.00 in Canada, and US$17.00 overseas surface mail. All charges included postage and handling.

*****

Another outstanding book to add to your collection is Mr. James Bendon's UPU Specimen Stamps. Admitted a little more specialized than Tyrrell's book, nevertheless, well worth acquiring.

The book may be acquired directly from Mr. James Bendon, Post Office Box 6484, Limassol, Cyprus for the amount of $47.50 postpaid.

U.N. STAMP EXPO 91

STATE COLLEGE, PA * * * * * OCTOBER 24-25, 1991

RULES & REGULATIONS

1. This exhibition is open to all individual collectors of United Nations and related material. The material exhibited must be the bona fide property of the exhibitor. Material with dual or corporate ownership is respectfully declined.
2. An entry form for each exhibit, along with the entry fee of $5.00 per frame ($3.00 Junior), must be mailed to APS National Headquarters, P.O. Box 8000, State College, PA, 16803, on or before August 1, 1991. No refund will be made for entries withdrawn after September 1, 1991.
3. The exhibits will be judged by APS accredited judges, whose decisions will be final. Each exhibit will be judged on its own merits on an open show basis. Exhibits will be judged on the basis of five levels of awards, and sufficient awards of each level will be placed at the disposal of the judges to be given without regard to section. A Grand Award will be awarded to the best exhibit in the show. Several special awards, to be announced later, will also be presented. All stamp exhibitors will be given a copy of the exhibition program and palmares.
4. The display area on each frame measures 35" x 47" with 12" high rows. Each frame will hold 16 pages, 9" x 12". Slightly larger pages can be accommodated with some overlapping. Each album page must be inserted into a transparent protective sleeve, envelope, or covering and should bear progressive numbers, preferably on the reverse side, to indicate the order in which the pages are to be mounted. Entries with large or odd size pages must obtain special approval from the APS Director of Communication before an entry form may be submitted for consideration.
5. An exhibitor may enter two collections provided an entry form is submitted for each entry. The maximum number of frames per exhibit is ten. The minimum number is three (Junior minimum is two frames). Entries will be reviewed and notification of acceptance will be made upon receipt of entry forms and fees. The APS reserves the right to refuse any exhibit. All fees paid will be refunded in case of non-acceptance.
6. Personally delivered exhibits will be accepted at the Keller Conference Center of The Pennsylvania State University, State College, PA, between 12 noon and 6:00 p.m., Wednesday, October 23, 1991.
7. Exhibitors will be informed as to where and when to mail their exhibits after their entry has been accepted. Persons wishing to send their exhibits by means other than USPS must make prior special arrangements.
8. Exhibits mailed to the U.N. Stamp Expo from within the United States must be forwarded prepaid. The preferred method for mailed exhibits is USPS Express Mail. This method of mailing is recommended by the APS Insurance Plan (see Section 9). The UN Postal Administration will bear the cost of postage for exhibits to be returned by mail. If the exhibit is to be returned by some other method than Express Mail, please include detailed mailing instructions on a separate sheet. In this case, the appropriate fee should be enclosed.
9. When mailing an exhibit, the APS Insurance Plan recommends Express Mail. Express Mail is more secure than other forms of mailing, such as certified or insured mail and is even more secure than registered mail. Express Mail receives the same level of security as it goes through the mail stream as registered mail, including the signature of individuals who handle the package. The difference from registered mail is that Express Mail travels through the mail stream in much less time. Since Express Mail is in the mail stream less time than registered mail, the risk of loss is reduced.

Collectors with APS Stamp Collector Insurance Plan coverage have automatic coverage when they send their exhibits by Express Mail. If the exhibitor carries the APS Insurance Plan bank vault coverage, option 'D', there is automatic coverage for Express Mail up to the value of the policy or $25,000, whichever is less. All other options are covered up to the value of the policy or $60,000, whichever is less. Temporary excess coverage is available by endorsement for an Express Mailing in excess of the above $25,000 and $60,000 limits. Simply call the APS Insurance Plan office at (301) 486-5500.
10. Owners must provide their own insurance. All reasonable care will be taken to ensure the safety of exhibits; however, no responsibility may be attached to the American Philatelic Society, the United Nations Postal Administration, The Pennsylvania State University, their officers, members, or employees, for any loss whatsoever.
11. Exhibitors are strongly encouraged to submit a separate single-page description of the exhibit for distribution to the judges prior to the exhibition. This single page may take the form of a title page, introduction, or outline, and should be submitted with the entry form.
12. No exhibit may be removed until after the exhibition closes at 4 p.m. on Friday, October 25, 1991. No exhibit will be removed from the frames until the exhibit area is cleared of all visitors. Exhibitors will be assisted in dismantling their exhibits.
