EDITOR'S MESSAGE

Greetings from Williamsburg

By Richard Powers

A funny thing happened on my way to Pasadena. After I had just stored my winter clothes in France in anticipation of not needing them during the fall of 1989 in Southern California and of my return to Europe (this time Paris) early in 1990, I received an invitation to spend the fall at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Virginia to visit the Physics Department.

So here I am in my "colonial" office trying to piece together the December issue of the Journal with a Macintosh IIx. If I knew that I would be using this PC for the rest of my life, I would throw myself more enthusiastically into learning how to exploit this "user-friendly" but decidedly different text-editing means from the VAX that I have been using at Basel. Unfortunately for me in my capacity as editor I can expect at best to do the February issue of the Journal with this machine before I move on to the Centre d'Études Nucléaires at Saclay (a suburb of Paris). in January. At that time my address will be as follows:

Richard Powers
D.Ph.N.-H.E.
Centre d'Études Nucléaires - Saclay
B.P.No. 2
F91191 Gif-sur-Yvette Cédex
France.

Assuming that I can prove to the French authorities that I am neither cancerous, tubercular nor harbor any blood diseases, I plan to spend at least the first six months of next year in France. But the following twelve months threaten to see me commuting between Basel, Switzerland and Mainz, West Germany and Gif-sur-Yvette, France.

I have already had a chance to size up the text-editing opportunities at Saclay and they are not exciting. Thus far I have found a Sun Work Station and a Bull (an Anglo-French personal computer). It will be at least a month before I can become "fluent" with either of these text-editing systems. What might be available in Mainz is at this moment a big unknown but will undoubtedly entail learning another system.

What I am leading up to is this. It would be better for the Journal if it had an editor, who was a bit less peripatetic. Is there someone out there, whose address will not be changing every three months in the near future, who would enjoy increasing his personal contacts in the world of United Nations philately and possibly has access to a text-editing system? If so, you are well on the way to being a promising candidate to occupy the position of UNP editor.

Actually having access to a text-editing system is not essential as there are plans for UNP to buy one for use by the editor. Even if you are hesitating because you are not sure that you want to devote so much time to United Nations philately, contact our president anyway. Perhaps the four of us - Ben Cohen, Clem Clement, you and I - can work out an arrangement, which would ease the burden during this eighteen-month period when I shall be roaming about central Europe.

Please continue mailing your contributions for the Journal to the President during this period of "editorial office dislocation".

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

By B. Clement, Jr.

I am happy that Dick Powers is back in the United States for a few months after more than two years in Switzerland and that he is able to edit this issue of the Journal. Dick will be returning to Europe at the end of the year and thinks that it may be difficult for him to edit the Journal on a regular basis for the next year and a half. Would anyone out there be interested in trying his hand at editing the Journal, either on a temporary or, if interested, on an on-going basis? If so, please let me hear from you.

Speaking of taking on new jobs, it will soon be time to select new officers for UNP, for a two-year term starting in mid-1990. Under the by-laws, I will be appointing a nominating committee to start the selection process. United Nations Philatelists can always use willing workers. If you think, you might like to get more involved in UNP affairs, by becoming an officer, a board member or a member of one of our committees, please write to me.

WORLD STAMP EXPO '89

Something for U.N. Specialists too!

By Richard Powers

In conjunction with its activities as host of the 20th Congress of the Universal Postal Union, the United States Post Office organized its first-ever philatelic exhibition - World Stamp Expo '89. This show was held in Washington, D.C. November 17th to the 20th and then again November 24th to December 3rd in order to allow for a Thanksgiving break. The venue was the Washington Convention Center.

The exhibition featured a 244-frame court of honor exhibit area and single-frame exhibits from one hundred stamp societies, including the UNP.

There were more than 120 postal administrations or representatives of stamp-issuing entities present. Nineteen foreign countries had first day ceremonies during the show including the UNPA. Not to be outdone, the U.S.P.S. held eleven first-day ceremonies for United States stamps or postal stationery.

Like any red-blooded U.N. collector, I attended the first day ceremonies of the 1989 Human Rights stamps that were issued by the U.N. on Friday November 18th. Among the featured speakers on the podium were Arleigh Gaines, the editor of the definitive U.N. catalogue United Nations Philately, who has been credited by the UNPA for suggesting featuring the thirty articles of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights on U.N. stamps. Other speakers included Jan Martenson (U.N. Under- Secretary General for Human Rights), Gordon Morrison (Assistant Postmaster-General) and Albert Mangones (the sculptor of the statue entitled The Unknown Slave, which appears on the 80-centime stamp).

As is traditional, attendees were presented C-presentation booklets, which included "singles" (Figure 1) of the New York issues. For this issue the UNPA has decided that a single unit consists of three stamps of each denomination with the adjoining labels containing the appropriate article of the Declaration in English, French and German. The stamps are sold only in units of three stamps. Even singles of the Geneva cachet FDC's bear three stamps with their adjoining labels. Collectors of combo FDC's do not escape the threefold-regulation. A New York combo FDC consists of three covers, each bearing a pair of UNNY stamps and the adjoining labels. It was not possible to buy a single English-language combo FDC without buying the French- and German-versions as well.

I find the stamps gorgeous but feel imposed upon when forced to buy each of the stamps in minimum groups of three because of the labels!

The UNPA commemorated their participation in World Expo by issuing a show card bearing a reference to the first article of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. Figure 2 shows the card, which bears a show cachet and a New York hand-cancel dated November 17th, the first day of issue of the 1989 series. The stamp however is the 1988 stamp.

The UNPA also received permission to have a Washington cancel (Figure 3) for use as a first day cancellation for the Human Rights issue. They prepared Geneva cachet first day covers. I inquired whether outgoing mail could bear this cancel. I was assured by the clerk in charge of applying the show cachet that it would be allowed. But I saw no sign of the cancelling device. I suspect that all mail put in the the UNPA mail box with UNNY UN stamps was taken back to Headquarters and cancelled with a normal UNPA hand cancel. Time will tell.

On Saturday November 18th a UNP- meeting presided over by our President Clem Clement was called to order at 3:00 PM. Present were approximately twenty-five members. Each member was asked to introduce himself and to mention his collecting interests. It was indeed a pleasure for me to finally be able to attach faces to the many names, which have appeared in correspondence to the editorial office.

After a few announcements, Clem narrated a slide show illustrating the numerous facets of U.N. philately.

On Sunday November 19th I attended a first day ceremony of one of the numerous U.S.P.S. philatelic items honoring the UPU-Congress. In this case it was the so-called Classic Mail Transportation se-tenant block of four 25¢-stamps. Each attendee received a presentation booklet with space and descriptions of the UPU-Congress commemoratives issued on November 17th (World Stamp Expo souvenir sheet containing four se-tenant imperforate 90¢-Lincoln stamps), November 24th (Future Mail Transportation souvenir sheet costing $1.80), November 27th (Future Mail Transportation se-tenant block of four. of 45¢-stamps), November 28th (Classic Mail Transportation souvenir sheet of four se-tenant 25¢-stamps) as well as the block issued November 19th. The booklet presented Sunday actually contained a block of four Classic Trans-portation stamps with a first day cancel and contained a loose page with the actual first day ceremony program. Those, who attended the first day ceremony on the previous Friday had received the same booklet with a copy of the souvenir sheet, which was being issued that day.

Those, who were interested in filling this album with all the appropriate issues of World Stamp Expo with first day cancels only had to wait until November 28th at which time all of the issues were then available. The U.S.P.S. obliged these customers by making available all of the appropriate first day cancels retroactively during the show. In Figure 4 one can see the first page of the booklet I received on November 19th with a copy of the $3.60 Lincoln souvenir sheet cancelled two days after the day of issue with a first day cancel. Since the U.S.P.S. normally backdates first day covers up to at least thirty days after the day of issue, this policy at World Stamp Expo was hardly extraordinary and allowed the persistent philatelists the possibility of completing the booklet themselves without having to attend more than one first day ceremony.

The U.S.P.S. also provided collectors with different mailboxes in which they could deposit mail to be cancelled with the daily commemorative or UPU-Congress cancels. These cancels were also available on a hand-back basis but only on the date of the cancel in contrast to the non-commemorative first day cancels, which were available continuously after the date on the cancel.

INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE "FDC"

A Surprise at World Stamp Expo

By Richard Powers

A visit to the PTT stamp of the Netherlands at World Stamp Expo reminded me that the International Court of Justice (ICJ) had authorized new stamps to be issued by the Dutch PTT for use at the Peace Palace in the Hague. The first day of issue was October 10, 1989, U.N. Day.

This is the first set of ICJ stamps to be sold to the public mint. I bought a set of mint stamps and inquired whether I could get a set of cancelled stamps. They had not prepared any in advance but the clerks had brought along their handcancel for the Peace Palace with the date October 24th the first day of issue.

I should explain that among Dutch collectors the ICJ stamps are treated as step-children. There are no official first day covers for these stamps because they are considered definitive stamps. Apparently first day covers in Holland are prepared only for commemoratives. The fact that the ICJ stamps are valid only in the Peace Palace also makes them unpopular with most Dutch collectors. (But try to find an official cover from the International Court of Justice bearing one of these stamps in Holland or anywhere for that matter! They are scarcer than hen's teeth.)

I asked the clerks whether they could cancel these stamps tied to covers. They agreed. Unfortunately they had no appropriate envelopes so I had to make do with the U.N. Geneva Headquarters cachet depicting the globe sculpture outside the Palais des Nations. My "first day cover" appears in Figure 1. It is at least as valid as normal U.S. F.D.C.'s, which may be sent in up to 30 days after the first day of sale and often are not cancelled at the site of the first day of issue. My "first day cover" was cancelled five weeks after the fact and on a different continent. However, I consider it at least as collectable as my U.N. Geneva cachet F.D.C.'s.

U.N. VIENNA BALLOON MAIL

Varieties in the Issue of 1984

By Joseph E. Full

In 1984 five Balloon Mail flights were scheduled. All the flights were made by the same balloons used in previous years. This was the sixth year in a row that Balloon D-ERGEE VII was used. None of the flights encountered bad weather or technical difficulties for the second year in a row.

The Balloon Mail statistics are as follows for the scheduled 1984 flights:

Innsbruck (OE-AZR)	May 5 E
Lans. Tirol (D-ERGEE V)	May 5 C
Gross-Enzersdorf (OE-KZM)	July 6 EC
Deutsch Wagram (OE-KZM)	October 27 E
Wien (D-ERGREE VII	October 27.C

E: Covers C:Cards EC:Covers/Cards
About 50000 items flown on each flight.

The use of FDC's continued in 1984 with stamps numbered V42 and V43. Exhibition cachets from Dornbirn, Hamburg, Rottweil and Spandau 84 were applied to about 3% of the covers and cards. Registered mail accounted for less than 1% of the total. Collectors should be on the lookout for missing landing site cancels (LSC). I have one registered cover with no LSC: 1983 Mattsee dated May 5, 1984. The cachet and cancel combinations from 1984 are listed in the adjoining table.

Now a missing landing site cancel has joined a missing bordstempel (on board cancel) as types of errors, the collector should be on the lookout for. I would appreciate hearing from Journal readers who uncover a find in their collection.
