COVER DESCRIPTION

OUTSIDE FRONT: 1992 UNPA Life Time Achievement Award winner Mr. Norris G. Robinson.

OUTSIDE BACK: Auction results.

EDITOR'S CORNER

If the experiment worked as planned you should be receiving this copy of the UNP Journal within the first two weeks of June, regardless of where you presently live. I would appreciate hearing from members as to when they received this issue.

We hope by consolidating the production on the West Coast, combined with first class shipment from the UNPA in New York, that we can regularly eliminate the three to five week delay time that has resulted from splitting the production and using second class mail facilities.

This issue has a number of excellent articles, including material on meters, UNTEA, and various other specialty areas. It also includes over 100 lots in our 1992C Premier auction. So take some time and consider this fine selection of U.N. related material.

A word to all contributors. Please make sure that your illustrations fit within a standard column. It is becoming a problem to have to re-photocopy or trim numerous illustrations to fit them into the standard format.

I wish to thank Dick Powers, the former UNP Journal Editor for volunteering to translate French and German for me. And also I apologize for being so uninformed as to believe that Swiss is a language, I have been informed by several members that the Swiss speak one or more of French, German, or Italian. I guess they were so busy banking and making chocolate, that they never got around to developing their own language.

AUCTION INFORMATION

For those interested, this issue contains all auction results up to 1992A. In the future, auction results will appear every third issue, containing the previous two auctions.

We continue to look for new material for future UNP auctions. So consider going through your material and consigning it to the UNP Auctions today!

This issue also has the UNP Premier auction. Please take a moment to review the extensive selection offered in this auction. It is in all probably the widest selection of material offered in the last several years.

By Clayton Wallace

As we eagerly await reports of the World Columbian Exposition from the U.N. perspective, and the results of the annual meeting, it is my duty to announce that the next Board of Directors meeting will be held at the APS Stamp show in Oakland, California on Saturday, August 20, 1992. Any items you wished placed on the agenda should be sent in writing to me by September 15, 1992. All UNP members are welcome to attend.

I would also like to take this time to call our members attention to the ballot attached to the back of this issue of the UNP Journal. Please take a moment and return the ballot with your vote to Nancy Morrow, Chairperson of the UNP Election Committee.

Finally, I would like to bring to our members attention the various benefits available to them from our organization besides receiving our club's publication. In addition to the Journal the benefits include:

1. A reasonable number of free member ads in our Nic-Nac column. The ads should relate to the buying or selling of international organization materials. Most ads should be six standard lines or less. Please contact the Editor for more information.

2. Questions relating to the U.N. or U.N. philately may be sent to the Editor. Numerous authorities can be drawn upon to assist in researching difficult or unusual aspects of a stamp or cover.

3. An estate advisory committee will help dispose of U.N. material. Recommendations for auction, private treaty, etc. will be made with no obligation or pressure placed on the sellers.

Feel free to avail yourself of these membership benefits.

LETTER FROM BRITAIN

By Bill Barnes

Sale of the Century!: In the last year or so, I have begun to reveal signs of rust and sounds of creaking. I do my best, but I am a man of many parts - most of them long past replacement. Reluctantly, I concluded that it would not be fair to my executors to leave them with the problem o disposing of my stamp collections, which, according to my wife, would album to album soar above your Empire State Building. I knew that Mark Steven Corrinet was in the market: we conferred, and a few weeks ago he came over.

That is how I came to enjoy four wonderful days sorting out all the problems of the world (and beyond) with a man who shares my interests and enthusiasisms in the same subject (international organization) and who has a similar sense of logical objectivity and understanding of basic morality. Most exhilarating! It proved a point that I've tried to make for years - that any two people who know the facts, argue objectively, and share the same morality will inevitably reach the same conclusions (so where do the world's politicians go wrong?).

Yes , I sold my collections to Mark (except my IMO collection - the IMO, you'll remember is the only U.N. agency with it's headquarters in Britain). And no, I have not abandoned my interest in U.N. philately (still less my vast enthusiasm for the U.N. itself). And certainly for, a while, I shall go on writing this Letter From Britain and my UNSG Bulletin column until I run out of philatelic steam.

It seems a bit lonely without those collections, but there is room in the room that housed the "Empire State Building." And you are very lucky having Mark to inspire you.

Timbrology: an old dictionary defines this term as "the study of postage stamps." It goes on "Timbrophily, love for this harmless pursuit." Harmless?

From the Convent of the League of Nations: From Article VI: "The expenses of the Secretariat shall be borne by the members of the League in accordance with the apportionment of the expenses of the International Bureau of the Universal Postal Union." You could not keep philately out of anything - even then!; and,

From Article VIII: "...the members of the league agree that the manufacture by private enterprise of munitions and implements of war is open to grave objections." And that could embarrass a few people even now!

The U.N. and - lighthouse!: (1) Someone put up a plaque to commemorate the U.N.'s International Year of Peace: it shows the Eddystone lighthouse at Beachy Head, Eastbourne, Sussex, Great Britain. (2) A C.C.E.P. (UPU) slogan used only at Eastbourne from June 30 to July 5, 1960 (See Illustration #1) to mark the International Postal Conference shows - the Eddystone lighthouse and Beachy Head!

Illustration #1 British Postal Conf. Cancel

VOELKERHUND!: In 1919, the National Hotel in Geneva was bought (for 5.5 million Swiss Francs) to house the League of Nations. The former manager of the Hotel stayed on - with his St. Bernard dog. The dog became known as "Voelkerhund" - a play on the German word for the League - Voelkerburd.

And while I'm on about dogs, here is a cartoon of mine (1974), with apologizes to all real cartoonists, as well as to Snoppy!

Credit to Bill Barnes

Clean Oceans: I think the UNPA's Clean Oceans issue was one of the most beautiful and telling of all it's issues. I like it so much that I can even suppress my objections to se-tenant presentations of that sort.

Of U.N. Philatelic Concern?: From time to time I have introduced matters of U.N. political concern in my philatelic columns - matters that I believe are, or should be, of interest to us. If you object, do please tell the editor - tell him why. Here are two more examples:

1) The Libyan issue: are we, by demanding trial in the USA or Great Britain, abandoning one of our most cherished principles of justice - that it should not only be done, but that it must be seen to be done? How could we find a judge and jury, in either of our countries, who would be seen by the rest of the world to be impartial?

2) Yugoslavia: I have heard suggestions (muted as yet) that the UN should be, and could be, more active in stopping the fighting in Yugoslavia. If they mean that the U.N. should engage in war to stop a war, count me out! I do not believe this is, or should be, the U.N.'s role and it is my belief that the U.N. will never be an effective force for peace if it adopts the military form it exists to prevent.

Dealer Habits: Have you noticed that some dealers sell you items (e.g. covers) with twenty year old prices on the back. I wish they'd clean up their act (and the covers) - I'd simply rather not know!

And there are those catalogue compilers who know so little about the subject that they perpetuate gaffes such as "Bureau of International Travel," I've seen that several times recently.

Editor's Note: "Travail" is the French term for "Labor."

But I suppose that it must be difficult selling to know-it-all people like me. And I do remember that there was a time when those incompetent old dealers taught me a thing or two (and they still do)!

Principles of Law - Again!: Our law courts provide some valuable ideas that might be applied to international problems. For example (from a British decision in Rex v. Julien, 1962-2 All England Reports 856), "There is an obligation to retreat before using force in self-defense." Wonderful - not even a "preemptive strike" possibility!

Editor's Note: Bill, I do not know if British law is the same, but in America there is no obligation to retreat in one's own home, i.e. the Kuwaitis in Kuwait. In addition, there is a major exception if one about to use force in self-defense, objective realizes, that retreat would be dangerous to themselves or those being protected!

Two Ouches: No, I have not run out of philatelic steam yet, but I'm a bit pressed for time and I have long wanted to remind my U.N. philatelic friends of these two excepts - from a great poet and a great author:

1) From W.H. Auder:

All I have is a voice
to undo the folded lie,
the romantic lie in the brain of the sensual man-in-the-street and the lie of Authority whose buildings grope the sky:
There is no such thing as the state and no one exists alone:
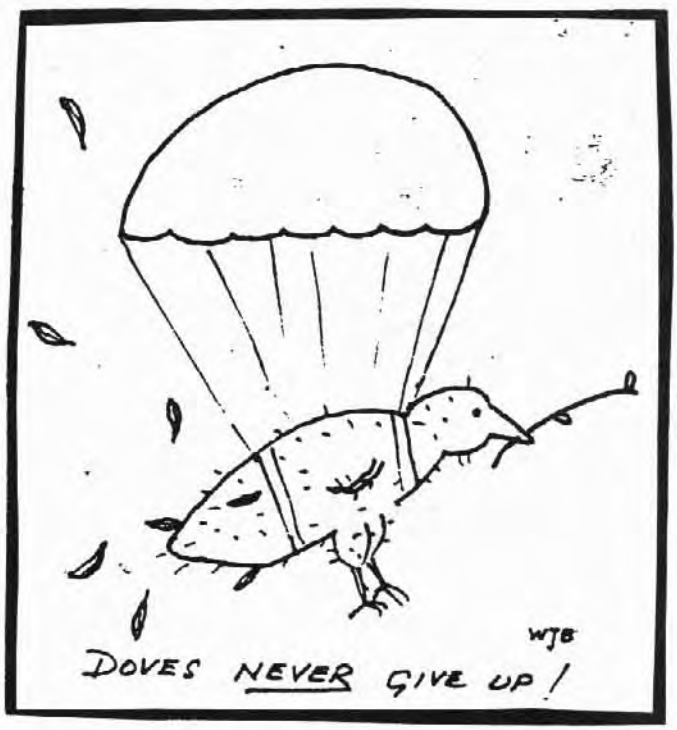
hunger allows no choice
to the citizen or the police;
we must love one another or die.

2) From Barbara Ward's The Home of Man: She ends "We cannot defeat something by nothing. Once it was said, 'If you wish for peace prepare for war.' Now the aphorism is reversed 'If you wish to avoid war, you must work for peace.



The U.N. Flag: was approved by the General Assembly on October 20, 1947, first flown on October 2, 1947 at Flushing Meadows, New York. And first flown at the U.N. headquarters in New York on October 5, 1949 when the steel structure of the Secretariat Building was completed). And there is a very strict U.N. flag code: The U.N. flag effectively takes precedence over all other flags.

NEW METERS AT THE UNITED NATIONS

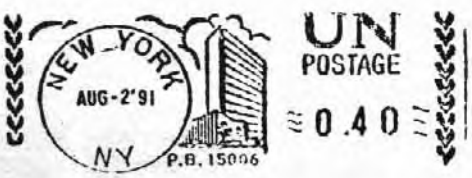
By Jack I. Mayer

The last meter change at the United Nations substation of the U.S. Postal Service was in 1984, when meters #5 and #6 were added to the existing #1 to #4 machines. Normally only three machines are in service at any one time with a fourth available for use as necessary to fill in for any inoperable machine.

In August 1991, a more radical change occurred. All the former machines were withdrawn from service. In the end, only P.B. #1, #3 and #6 were in use. The last day was August 1, 1991. This was also the last day of the town-mark "United Nations, N.Y.", thus far only known on P.B. #3 and #6.

Last day of old machines, August 1, 1991

On August 2, 1991, new Pitney-Bowes meters were in place. These were numbered 15001, 15002, 15003 and 15006. The town-mark was changed to "New York, N.Y." When officials were asked why the town-mark was changed, the response was only that it should never have been United Nations, N.Y. in the first place. Remember, this is a substation of the U.S. Postal Service, similar to the many other substations in New York City, all operating with meter town-marks of "New York, N.Y.".

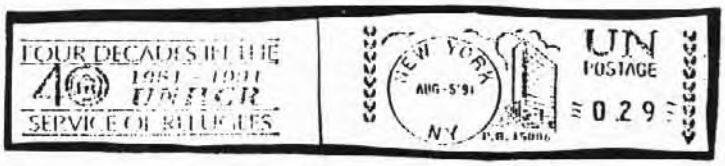


First day of new meters, August 2, 1991

There were no philatelic cancels for this first day. Thus far it is only known on P.B. 15006.

The "WORLD HEALTH DAY 7 APRIL 1991" slogan used above had its last day of use on Saturday, August 3, 1991. This makes any use of this slogan from the new machines very rare with only 2 days of use!

On August 5, 1991, Monday, a new slogan was put into service "FOUR DECADES IN THE SERVICE OF REFUGEES, 1951-1991 UNHCR." This slogan received the usual philatelic treatment on P.B. 15001, 15002, 15003 and 15006.



First day of new slogan

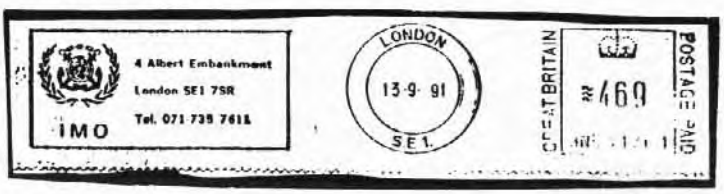
According to an unconfirmed report, P.B. 15002 failed and was replaced by P.B. 15000 on October 2, 1991, just three days after another slogan was introduced "1951-1991 FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE UNITED NATIONS POSTAL ADMINISTRATION." The only copies of this slogan on P.B. 15002 reported are those philatelically produced with the first day of slogan, September 30, 1991. Whether this machine saw any use beyond the first day is unknown as three machines were still available and used as was the normal practice.

P.B. 15002, First day of slogan

The replacement machine, P.B. 15000 was first noted on October 10, 1991. How much prior use was made of this machine is as yet unknown.

Earliest known date of use, P.B. 15000

The International Maritime Organization (IMO) at London, Great Britain replaced meter #P.B.E. 1144 with meter #3NE 11764. The last day of use of the P.B.E. 1144 was May 28, 1991. The first day of recorded use of the new meter was May 29, 1991. It was used without the slogan initially, with the earliest known date of the slogan being June 17, 1991.



UNTEA CORNER #5

By M. Hardjasudarma

The Dutch have traditionally had a separate category of revenue stamps, quite distinct from postage stamps. However, on occasion postage stamps were used as revenues, and this custom carried over into the UNTEA period.

The postal account service in Netherlands New Guinea opened officially in July 1952 with one account holder, which grew to 77 in 1962. This service enabled the public to make payments to any account holder by depositing the funds into the appropriate postal accounts. The fee was 10c. for every f 100 (f = guilder), with reportedly a maximum fee of f 5 (This must be erroneous - see Illustration #2). The maximum limit per deposit at regular post offices was f 50,000 and f 10,000 at sub or branch post offices.

The RC 1 deposit slips cost 2c. each. That this service was quite successful, and certainly convenient, is evidenced by the following statistics: the number of transactions between 1952 and 1959 rose from 280 to over 100,000, the monies involved from f 200,000 to nearly 8 million guilders. Understandably, this 'postal meddling' was not looked upon favorably by the banking industry; in 1958 they successfully petitioned the government against the opening of a postal account by a major oil company. This would have deprived the banks from a major share in the transfer of funds resulting from oil and gasoline transactions.

At one point account holders included various utilities (especially electricity and water), hospitals, local government treasuries, a leprosarium, the government printing works, the automobile club, the philatelic association and a number of Christian missions. Many of them must have closed their accounts before or shortly after the start of UNTEA. However some, especially utility companies, continued and used RC 1 forms with UNTEA stamps and cancels.

Illustration #1 (Electricity bill paid by depositing amount owing into postal account number 13. Standard deposit slip RC 1. Ten cent fee paid with UNTEA stamp. Fakfak January 4, 1963.

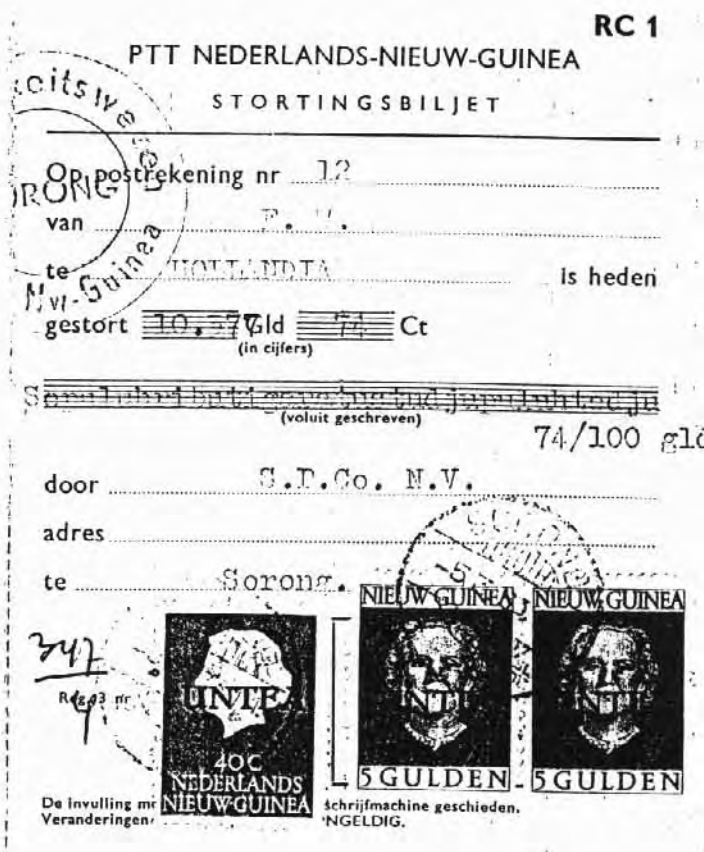


Illustration #2 (Unusually large deposit (over f 10,300), but if the depositor (S.P.Co.) was who I think it was, e.g. the Shell Petroleum Company, then this seemingly outlandish electricity bill is understandable.

Only when kept on this forms is the unique revenue nature of the stamps preserved. Soaked off paper, they can in no way be distinguished from ordinarily used postage stamps.

AT ISSUE

By Mark Steven Corrinet

It is high time that something is done about the pricing in the Arleigh Gaines United Nations Philately catalog.

Almost four years ago, the Scott Publishing Company finally realized that their "retail catalog" was a sham and made the correct decision to adjust the pricing in their catalogs to offer a more realistic view of stamp valuations.

Meanwhile, Mr. Gaines persists in his outdated view that somehow the pricing reflected in his catalog are "retail" prices. He justifies this position by stating that the prices are based on "dealers lists" and "auction realizations."

With only one U.N. speciality dealer left active after the upcoming retirement of Stanley Roach, Mr. Gaines, "dealers lists" have all but disappeared. And I do not know what "auction realizations" Mr. Gaines uses (he doesn't list them anywhere), but with the amount of material moving through the UNP, UPUC, and Kosmoski auctions, and at the stated prices realized, I have no idea where Mr. Gaines supports his pricing for the entire first half of his catalog dealing with material generated by the UNPA? Let alone, many of the items from the specialized agencies?

Either Mr. Gaines should publicly, and in writing, admit that heavy discounting is the rule and not the exception for his catalog, or he should make a systematic reduction in his prices to properly reflect the market value of the material listed in his catalog. Particularly, material produced by the UNPA.

By leaving the pricing as it is, without the benefit of warnings regarding discounting, he acts as an unintential stooge for unscrupulous dealers (non-U.N. speciality dealers) and individuals who sell material to unwary beginning or early intermediate collectors at inflated prices. While relegating his catalog to the status of a mere information reference source for advance collectors.

Let this be the toiling of the bell for a new era of realistic U.N. pricing, with an outstanding reference work providing pricing that can be trusted and used by all U.N. collectors, of whatever level or interest.

Mr. Gaines provided United Nations philately with one of the finest general reference works available to any specialized philatelic collecting area. He has continued throughout the years to support this endeavor with a steady stream of updating and revision. For this I join U.N. collectors everywhere in thanking him. But the time has come to take the next step and make the catalog's pricing realistic and not the tool of a few individuals to misuse and mislead unwary new U.N. collectors.

A COMMENT on history: "It was at the signing of the Treaty of Versailles. Old enemies were standing about awkwardly, when a German diplomat approached French Premier George Clemenceau and asked him what he thought history would say about all this. 'I do not know what history will say, ' Le Tigre is alleged to have replied. 'But I do know history will not say that Belgium invaded Germany."
