EDITOR'S CORNER

April's issue is a little lean in the way of articles due to a continual shortage of submitted manuscripts. Please take a moment to consider writing something up for publication in the Journal.

What this issue lacks in articles it makes up in goodies. We have an outstanding Premier auction with something for everyone. If you can't find something to buy in this one you are not really trying!

We also have a new double feature written by yours truly. The first half is a description of a particular U.N. oriented literature item - this issue focuses on the Journal itself. Followed by a listing of literature for sale to our members. The club makes a percentage on each sale so consider buying something today.

Due to a distinct lack of interest shown by all concerned. I have given up the idea of a reader's choice award for best article feature.

With a shortage of space in this issue I will use the following lines for a brief "AT ISSUE" column. From this point in the column I am writing as a member, not as the Editor of the Journal.

Most of you will have noticed by now that I am no longer writing the U.N. column for Linn's Stamp News. Effective with the April issue I was fired, terminated, tossed-out, what-have-you because of a telephone conversation I had with Michael Lawrence, Managing Editor of Linn's where I expressed my outrage over a Linn's article by Les Winick in which he made unresearched and unsupported ascertains about the sell out of the .29 cent "Mission to Planet Earth" issue and the fact that almost half my column addressing his false ascertains had been edited out to avoid displeasing Winick and, God forbid, show Linn's readers disagreement between the Linn's columnists.

I retrack nothing I have said. I firmly believe that Winick's actions stink of the worst kind of yellow journalism and Lawrence's actions of censorship and a petty ego. They represent to me all that is wrong with our hobby's "Good old boy network."

My position has been filled by Arliegh Gaines or Ron Ginns whichever name you choose to call him by. Of the available writers I believe Ron/Arleigh is the best choice. I do not agree with Ron/Arleigh's catalog pricing, but he is a good researcher, and I look forward to reading his future articles and sincerely wish him the best of luck.

AUCTION INFORMATION

By Alex Bereson

This UNP Premier 1993B Auction is the property of nine consignors. It represents the best variety of material that the club auctions has ever offered. The highlights include many UNNY early printings, a nice selection of military covers, lots of early forerunner material and a excellent grouping of U.N. topical material.

To increase your chances of obtaining more lots, you may specify a "limit" on your bid sheet. Your bids will be executed in order until your limit is reached.

So good luck and good hunting.

THE PRESIDENT'S PAGE

By Clayton Wallace

At the last UNP Board of Directors meeting we voted in a proposal sponsored by Mr. Bernie Kosmoski to provide for a $1.00 credit against membership dues for each member who brings in a new member to the club. This offer is not open to the officers and directors of the club.

So help your club grow and consider introducing our club to a fellow collector and earn up to $15.00 in dues credit.

We are looking towards holding your next national meeting in New York in the Fall of 1993. Suggestions regarding the choice of which show are welcome.

CLAY'S COVER CORNER #9

By Clayton Wallace

The story of the White Russians (Ukrainians) fleeing from the Russian Revolution is not well known. Many of these refugees ended up in Northern China (Manchuria) where they remained for over thirty years, only to be forced from their settlements once again as the Chinese Communist Revolution raged during the late 1940s. Known as the "Shanghai Refugees," these homeless people came under the jurisdiction of the International Refugee Organization, who's charter in the post-World War II era was to relocate the masses of displaced people. Dr. Louise Holborn wrote in The International Refugee Organization - A Specialized Agency of the United Nations - Its History and Work: 1946-1952 (Oxford University Press, 1956):

"...And of all the peoples that the IRO was called upon to handle, this group (the White Russians) were by far the hardest to relocate. They consisted mainly of white-collar workers, government officials, police officials, and others; about ten percent were intellectuals. Psychologically, they had remained refugees. Conditions in China had effectively prevented their assimilation into a normal life. The older ones amongst them still retained hope of a victorious return into Russia and the idea was common that, as they were the earliest refugees from the Bolsheviks, the world owed them something."

A series of misfortunes and international politics made these refugees almost untouchable. Country after country refused to take them. Finally, the Philippine government agreed to temporally take them (only for 18 months). They located them in tents on the isolated jungle island of Tubabao, connected to the main island of Samar by a bridge, and fifteen mile from Guiuan. The Philippine government stipulated that at the end of the stay, none of the refugees could remain in their country, nor could any of the refugees work outside of the camp.

Needless to say, living in a tent under the most primitive conditions with no running water or indoor plumbing, constantly subjected to intense heat, humidity, typhoons, and insects made their stay miserable. The IRO told them they would be there about four months, this dragged out for some to almost four years.

Mail was sent to a special IRO post office which was set up in Guiuan. Postage was paid with the use of current philippine stamps at normal postal rates. All the mail sent from these refugees received a circular "IRO - UNEC/POST OFFICE" cachet which stood for International Refugee Organization - United Nations Evacuation Center/Post Office. Two different varieties of this cachet are known. Figure #1 below shows one of the two varieties known along with the acceptance cancellation from the Guiuan Philippine post office.

Collector Larry Kierstine shares the contents of one of these covers will us (not the figure #1 cover). The letter was posted from Tubabao on March 20, 1950, as was cancelled in Guiuan one day later:

"...Our camp is situated in a tiny isle of tubabao which is not even figuring on the map, off the most southern tip of Samar Island. There is a small town of Guiuan about 15 miles across the bridge on the Samar Island, but there everything is strictly native, not even a bookstore. All the stuff is brought to town by sea-going freighters. I never thought that I'll get struck here so long, and this is the reason I ran out of all my financial reserves. For the food that we are given in camp is inadequate and one has to buy extras on the market, where prices are high.

I thought, as did everyone else, that I would be here only four months, but instead I am here on my second year... We are subjected to down-pour rains for over a week without stopping and so everyone got soaked down and under. The tents that we live in are leaking on all sides, not speaking already of the tops...It is quite an experience to live in a situation like this one and I don't doubt that I'll remember it all my life. It is the first time in my life that I find myself in the tropical climate, and now I begin to understand that people of the tropical climate are somewhat slow in everything and I don't blame them a bit, for the tropical heat tires you out and depresses your morale to a certain extent and these unceasing rains and typhoons are a real misery.

Wishing you all the best of health and happiness for the coming Easter holidays, and my apology for not sending a greeting card..."

Since unemployment among the native Philippinos was high, the Philippine government wanted to isolate the refugees from the rest of the populace. This ten square mile island accomplished this effectively. During the first week of December 1951, a devastating typhoon hit Tubabao, destroying the bridge to Samar and completely isolating the camp inhabitants.

Fortunately by this time most of the refugees had been accepted by the United States, France, Australia, Paraguay and the Dominican Republic. Of the 5,500 total refugees, 2,000 left in 1949, 1,000 in 1950 and 2,000 in 1951. The remaining 500 left shortly after the typhoon destroyed the settlement in 1951.

Note: The captions on Figures #2 and #3 were reversed in CCC #7 in the December 1991 issue of The Journal.

UNITED NATIONS LITERATURE

By Mark Steven Corrinet

The United Nations Philatelists, Inc. Journal was first published in August 1977 with volume one, number one.

The first three issues have a blue cover. The white cover with blue printing was begun with issue number four. The journal size format ran until April 1987, volume nine, number four when the journal was enlarged to magazine size where it has remained to this date.

Some of the numbering sequences on the Journal can be a bit confusing, so the following paragraphs outline the information needed to identify each issue of our publication.

Volume one includes six issues numbered one to six covering August 1977 to August 1987. There was no December 1987 issue. This is why all subsequent volumes, until volume 15, started their first issue in the month of October.

A small note on volume two, number five. It is numbered as whole number 10, when in fact it was whole number 11.

All the Journal's pages, starting with volume two to present, are numbered sequentially, i.e. issue one's pages ran from one to twelve and issue two's from thirteen to twenty-four, etc. The exceptions are all issues in volume one and volume 14, number 1 where yours truly messed up and continued numbering from volume 13, number 6. And then I really mixed things up by starting volume 14, number 2 with page 13. Things went well with volume 15, but it goes without saying, that I repeated the mistake with volume 16, number 1, correcting the situation again with the second issue. But I promise not to mess up volume 17.

Up until volume 14 all issue number ones came out in October of a given year. In order to put the club publication on a calendar year, it was decided to print a short volume 14 (only two issues) covering the October and December issues of 1990. This allowed the first issue of 1991 (February) to become volume 15, number 1. All issue number ones now start in February of each year.

Finally, there were only five issues, rather than the normal six, in volume 15. The August/October issue (number 4/5) was merged into a single issue to allow for a giant issue in commemoration of the UNPA sponsored stamp show in State College, PA of 1991.

There is an cumulative index to volumes one to five, whole numbers one to thirty. No index exists for volumes six-up, but the door is open to an eager volunteer!!! Next issue we will cover the Bulletin of the UNSG.
